Ohio Surgeon Sees Need, Plans Move to Small Town

CLEVELAND (AP) — "The thought that maybe I could be of greater use somewhere else began to haunt me," a Cleveland surgeon said as he explained why he is leaving a well-established practice to go to a small town.

Dr. Walter A. Mendyka, 42, leaves Tuesday for Machias, Me., population 3,500, to practice in an area where he believes there is a great need.

"I guess the idea was born during the reign of Pope John III," said Mendyka, who has been practicing in Cleveland since 1956.

"As I learned more about him and his works, I got the idea that I should do more to share with others the good things God has given me and my family."

The rest of the Mendykas—11 children and his wife, Frances—will leave their 12 - room house and follow him to Maine after the school year.

Dr. Mendyka, a staff member of St. John's Hospital, said he learned of the need for a surgeon in Machias last November. He and his wife decided on the move Christmas Eve and told their children Christmas Day.

"We didn't know how the children would react," Mrs. Mendykas said. "They accepted it cheerfully."

Mendyka visited the town—80 miles east of Bangor and 25 miles southwest of Franklin D. Roosevelt's retreat of Campobello—and liked the people, the town and the 36-bed hospital, which he said is one of the most modern he has seen.

"I fell in love with the town," he said. "The people are mostly fishermen or lumbermen or cannery workers. They are not as affluent probably as most Clevelanders. But they are warm and friendly and they need a general surgeon so badly."

Dr. Mendyka said he learned only about half the beds in the hospital are used because people in the area have to travel 80 miles or more for surgical care.

About leaving their parents, other relatives and friends, Mrs. Mendyka said:

"We'll miss them all . . . but this is the price we will pay for the satisfaction we'll gain."

Reams Urges Use of Bonds For Health

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr., in an open letter to Gov. James A. Rhodes suggested today that some of the uncommitted amounts in state bond authorization be diverted from "less urgent" capital improvements to mental health programs.

Reams said funds are needed to overcome "glaring inadequacies" in mental health facilities and programs, and called on Rhodes to convene a special spring session of the legislature to provide the money.

The Toledo legislator, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, said there are four possible sources for financing mental treatment improvements

(1) Unexpected general fund surpluses; (2) additional state taxes; (3) more bonds; (4) diversion of some of the uncommitted amounts "in the billion-dollar bond authorizations secured by Rhodes."

Reams noted that $175 million of the 1963 authorization and all of the $290 million 1965 bonding authorization have not been used.

The Easter count from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday totaled at least 15 deaths. Three victims were Cincinnati teen-agers whose car cracked up in suburban Cincinnati, and two Norwalk teen-agers perished in a colision near their city.

A plane crash that killed two, a railroad yards fatality and an automotive garage mishap ran the over-all accident toll to a known 19.

New School Bus Service Law Gets Airing

Some Boards Concerned over Financing Deal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Representatives of local school boards voiced concern today over financing provisions of Ohio's new law extending school bus transportation to private and parochial school pupils.

They testified at a public hearing before the state Board of Education, which is considering rules to implement the controversial law enacted by the 1965 Legislature. Busing under the statute is to begin with the fall school term.

An estimated 150 persons attended the hearing prior to the board's regular monthly meeting.

None of the first witnesse attacked the law on contitutional grounds, some noting this question is for the courts, where case are pending.

Thoma J. O'Keefe, who heads the Ohio Education Association, told the 24-member board that the OEA's main concern is financing provisions which could force local boards to absorb part of new busing expenses.

O'Keefe and Louis D. Moore of Urbana, vice president of the Ohio School Boards Association, maintained it was the intent of the legislature for the state — with whatever federal funds are available—to pay all of the excess cost.

Howard Gould, Cincinnati attorney representing the Ohio Motor Bus Association, contended there is no provision under proposed regulations that cover reimbursement of certain carriers for capital expense. He mentioned a provision calling for such carriers to reimburse under the same formula used for board of education-owned buses.

Gould said some districts own no buses.

Dr. E. E. Holt, Ohio intruction superintendent, emphasized that the board would take no action until each member has had time to study a transcript of today's hearing.

Holt said his staff has recommended some revision in the rule announced two months ago. It will be up to the board, however, to make changes.

Recommended changes include a formula for reimbursement of contract carriers to meet Gould's objections, Holt said.

Pair Flees Wooster Jail, Slugs Deputy

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—Authorities pressed their search northeast of here today for two escapees, one armed, who broke out of the Wayne County Jail and clubbed a deputy with a lead pipe.

Sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen and city police are looking for Billy Klotz, 22, and William Boychi, 16, who sawed their way out of their cells Sunday night and hit Deputy Fred Forney over the head. He was not seriously injured.

A service revolver was taken from a cabinet after the two ransacked the office, the sheriff's department said.

Authorities said the pair may head northeast because Boychi is from Doylestown, about 15 miles northeast of here. He was jailed March 21 after being arrested for arson.

Klotz, jailed as a parole violator, is from Wooster.

An inmate started calling for help on the sheriff's radio shortly after the escape, deputies said.

Buddhists Want Poll Now

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government braced today for more street violence after the Buddhist leadership vowed to keep up demonstrations until the U.S.-backed junta quits.

"Only when our aspirations are met and our demands satisfied will there be no more demonstrations," the country's most powerful monks declared in a joint statement Sunday.

In militant tones echoing their declarations of political war on the government of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem three years ago, the Buddhists accused the regime of lying, irresponsibility and placing "too many obstacles" in the way of civilian rule.

At a news conference in Saigon, the monks asked the nation to rally behind the "Viet Nam Buddhist Forces," a new anti-government political action organization created by them.

They were asked if a popular civilian government might seek peace with the Communists and order the withdrawal of U.S. forces. Thich Thien Minh, co-leader of the Viet Nam Buddhist Forces and chairman of the militant Buddhist Youth Movement, replied:

"If that is what the people want, then that is what they will get. We want to fulfill the aspirations of the people."

The Buddhist leaders denied they were anti-American or responsible for the attacks on individual Americans by rioting, Buddhist-led youths in Saigon last week. "The monks involved were just letting off steam," they said. "We abide by nonviolence."

They accused the Ky government of destroying "the democratic spirit in Viet Nam" by promising elections no earlier than next year. They said elections could be held right away.

The Buddhists said the pacification and reconstruction programs warmly endorsed by President Johnson at his Honolulu meeting with Ky in February could move ahead only "with strong provincial and central governments."

"We can get this with general elections, the elections we have demanded for three years," they said. "In this way we can make the whole country stable and prevent opportunists from making headway."

The overwhelming majority of South Viet Nam's more than 14 million people are at least nominally Buddhists, although Roman Catholics comprise about 10 per cent of the population. There are also important minority religious sects.

The government charged that the Viet Cong had been instructed by the National Liberation Front's Central Committee to take advantage of the unrest. A government intelligence source was quoted by the official Viet Nam Press as saying that on March 12 the committee ordered Viet Cong agents to emphasize political agitation "by instigating the population to topple the government."

Soviet's Moon Plans Hastened

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is preparing for the celebration Tuesday of the fifth anniversary of Yuri Gagarin's first manned space flight, with optimistic talk about putting a man on the moon.

Soviet cosmonauts have been giving indications that their government will attempt man's great lunar adventure sooner than had been expected.

Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, March 18, 1965, said in Budapest that a Russian will land on the moon as early as 1968.

Gagarin told the Czechoslovak news agency that Soviet space research had advanced more rapidly than planned. He said he was convinced there would be a man on the moon within the next five years.

Gherman Titov, the second Soviet cosmonaut, predicted Sunday that the moon would become a giant space center where ships would be built for flights "into the depths of the universe." He talked of complicated operations being undertaken in space by men "soon."

The cosmonauts, all speaking in connection with the Gagarin anniversary, made no mention of President Johnson's claim that the United States would beat the Soviet Union in putting a man on the moon. The President gave 1970 as the target for the U.S. program.

The cosmonauts' optimism gets support from two big successes the Soviet space program has already achieved in 1966.

First came the soft landing on the moon Feb. 3 by the unmanned Luna 9 spaceship.

On April 3 Luna 10 was put into orbit around the moon, another first and another essential for getting a man there. The most discussed plan for a manned landing calls for the trip to be made in stages, jumping off for the final one from a lunar satellite.

One possible next step in the Soviet program is a manned flight to explore the vicinity of the moon without attempting a landing.

Soviet space flights are never announced in advance. The cosmonauts give hints in general terms, but the world can only guess the rest.

A current rumor is that another space spectacular will be launched Tuesday on the anniversary of Gagarin's flight.

No Income Tax Extension Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers won't get an extension this year of the April 15 deadline for filing their individual income tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said today.

Friday, April 15 is a regular business day, an IRS spokesman said. He added the only time the deadline is extended is when April 15 falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday.

To meet the deadline, IRS said returns should be postmarked no later than midnight this coming Friday.

Collegian Fails Human Torch Try

WASHINGTON (AP)—A college student doused himself with gasoline in front of the White House in what police said was an attempt to burn himself to death in protest against the Viet Nam war. He was seized as he tried to strike two matches.

Police said Arthur Zinner, a slender, bespectacled 20-year-old Boston University student, was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for observation.

Zinner arrived in Washington by bus early Sunday, police said, and telephoned two radio stations telling them of his plan. Radio station personnel notified police. Two detectives and a Secret Service agent grabbed Zinner when he poured gasoline from two plastic bottles on himself and tried to strike the matches.

The youth offered no resistance.

In New York, the youth's father, Jack Zinner, said his son was not active in any peace group that he knew of, but said he must have been "carried away by what the students are doing."

Bosch Stock Seen Climbing

Dominican Leader May Be Chief Again

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Juan Bosch, self-styled spokesman underprivileged, may soon have a second chance as president of his troubled nation.

Cheering delegates nominated the 56-year-old writer-philosopher Sunday as the presidential candidate of the Dominican Revolutionary party in the June elections.

Bosch, whose followers triggered the 1965 revolution in which the United States intervened, is considered the front runner in a contest expected to include at least three other major presidential aspirants.

Bosch couches his speech in simple folky language that appeal to the common man.

His upper-class critics see distortion, bitterness and vindictivene woven killfully into his oratory. But in the neighborhood grocery stores, bars and fruit stands, the ordinary folk cluster transfixed around their radios when Bosch speaks.

"Juan Bo' lo abe todo — Juan Bosch knows it all," they say reverently.

Bosch is a political paradox. A left-of-center liberal, he is damned by other liberals while conservatives are among his staunchest partisans. He has often been accused of playing up to the Communists, but Red leaders are known to fear his hold over their favorite prey, the common man.

Bosch took office in February 1963 as the first freely elected Dominican president in 30 years. Prospects looked promising. He had a mandate from more than 60 per cent of the electorate. Sugar, keystone of the Dominican economy, was selling on the world market at 11 cents a pound. It brings only 2 cents now.

But the political machine Bosch had helped create became enmeshed in a factional power struggle. Just seven months after he took over, a military coup forced him back into exile. There were no demonstrations or protests on his behalf.

Last spring followers of Bosch touched off bitter fighting in an attempt to bring him back from exile in Puerto Rico.

Annual Egg Roll Attracts Kiddies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of tots in their best Easter bibs and tuckers turned up at the White House today to roll eggs — a tradition dating back to Ulysses S. Grant's administration.

Under a pleasant sun, in a cooling breeze the children filed into the big back yard, most of them on the hands of parents.

The rules of the game are simple. Kids roll eggs down the slope in a southerly direction from the Truman balcony. The one whose egg goes farthest is supposed to get the competing eggs.

President Remains At His Texas Ranch

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson got a relief pitcher to open the American League baseball season in Washington today so he could stay on and enjoy a post-Easter holiday at his Texas ranch.

He set no time for his return to the capital.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey got the job of throwing out the first ball at the Washington-Cleveland opener.

Vaccinations For Cancer Seen

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University medical researchers say they may have discovered a way to treat cancer by vaccination.

Results they claim for a four-year program so far include:

— Two cancer patients, earlier given up as hopeless cases, completely freed of their tumors.

— Eight others once considered beyond help still alive, their cancers either halted or growing more slowly.

— Two patients with advanced tumors, their lives believed prolonged by the treatments.

Others among the 20 patients treated showed no improvement, said Dr. Paul L. Wolf, Wayne State professor of pathology and director of experimental pathology at the Detroit Institute of Cancer Research.

Failure in these cases, Dr. Wolf said, probably came because the disease was too far advanced and the patient's body no longer capable of producing cancer-fighting antibodies.

The Wayne group's vaccine, he explained, aids the victim's body in producing these antibodies.

Many cancer patients are lost Dr. Wolf said, because their bodies don't fight the disease. The body recognizes the malignant cells as part of it, and doesn't react by producing the chemicals needed to kill them.

The Wayne State group combines cancerous cells taken from the patient with chemicals obtained from the cells of rabbits. Then the combination is injected into the patient.

His body recognizes the matter as foreign and produces antibodies to fight it. In the process, Dr. Wolf said, the antibodies may kill or retard the tumor.

The researchers, working with mice and human patients at Northville State Hospital, reported success with reducing cancers of the skin, liver and breast.

Athens Seeks Regional Health Unit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A proposed regional demonstration health center in Athens would be "most helpful and useful" to Ohio and the nation, Gov. James A. Rhodes said today.

He said the Ohio Office of Opportunity will present the proposal to the federal Appalachia Commission and request funds under the Appalachia Act.

Athens plans to build a new community hospital that would be the core of the health center. It will be operated by the Sheltering Arms Hospital Foundation, which has begun a fund-raising drive.

Ohio University has provided a 90-acre tract for the new hospital and would assist in staffing and operating the health center.

The hospital would be eligible for a $1 million federal grant under the Hill-Burton Act.

Regional health centers are provided for under the Appalachia Act of 1965. Rhodes said the Athens center would be valuable as a pilot project, besides directly benefitting Southeast Ohio.

Wellston in Line For Turkey Plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes announced today that southeastern Ohio may be in line for a poultry processing plant that could employ 1,000 workers and the likely location is Wellston.

Rhodes reported the Ralston Purina Co. of St. Louis, Mo., may built a 130,000 square foot turkey processing plant in Ohio's Appalachia area.

He said Wellston, Jackson County, is possibly first in line for the plant providing the city can provide water and sewer service to meet a maximum demand for 4 million gallons daily.

Production could begin as early as June, 1967, Rhodes said he was informed.

Stargazer Satellite Conks Out

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "We're heartbroken," said a space agency spokesman in announcing the failure of America's Stargazer satellite after only two days in orbit.

For an unknown reason, the orbiting astronomical observatory (OAO) lost all its battery power Sunday, and the two-ton satellite whirled silently and uselessly around the globe.

It never had a chance to exercise its 10 telescopes, which astronomer had hoped would unlock secrets of the stars and perhaps provide clues to the origin of the universe.

Scientists had worked for years to perfect OAO, the first astronomical observatory ever sent into space. All were disappointed at the failure but said they hoped it would teach them lessons about the second OAO, scheduled for launching early in 1967.

The lessons will be costly. The satellite, one of the heaviest and the most complex unmanned payload ever launched by the United States, had a price tag of about $50 million. The Atlas-Agena rocket that hoisted it from Cape Kennedy Friday cost about $12 million. Several thousand dollars were added to the cost by five postponements of the flight.

The failure of an Atlas-Centaur rocket Thursday pushed the total cost of the back-to-back fizzles here to more than $75 million.

Lone Candidate Gets Nary a Vote

SPEARMAT, Tex (AP) — Hansford County School Board members are perplexed over how to fill a vacancy on the board — if one actually exists.

A board election was held April 2. L. L. Edge, who has served on the board for 21 years, was the only name on the ballot for Precinct 2.

But no one went to the polls to vote, not even Edge. He said he was sick that day.

The state attorney general's office was asked for a ruling. It replied: "We have never heard of such a thing happening and can find no record of any decision made in such a situation in the past."

Under state law Edge is the board representative from that precinct until a successor is sworn in.

Christians Observe Holy Week Climax

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From humble chapels along the twisting alleyways of old Jerusalem to stately churches adorning broad avenues, the world's Christians — rich and poor, the mighty and the humble — gathered in their places of worship to celebrate Easter Sunday, the climax of Holy Week.

Pilgrims in Jerusalem paid homage in churches ranging from the tiny to ornate Byzantine structures.

A few Protestants knelt in a field outside the city, praying before a cleft in a rock, which they believe is the spot where Christ was buried.

Across the storied valley, on the Mount of Olive, Lutherans held services in the Church of Mary Magdalen near the Garden of Gethsemane.

Some of the pilgrims retraced the steps of Jesus along Via Dolorosa to Calvary.

In jam-packed St. Peter's Square in Rome, Pope Paul VI in his annual Easter message pleaded for an end to war, racism, nationalism, and social conflict.

The Pope termed the celebration of Christ's Resurrection "history's eternal springtime."

If all men listened to the Eater message, he said, he felt confident about "the posibility of this triumph of unity in love and justice, in liberty and progress."

In Fredericksburg, Tex., President Johnson attended services at St. Barnabas Episcopal church with his family. Daughter Luci — who became Catholic, as is her fiance, Pat Nugent — later attended a Roman Catholic service.

There were peace marches in England and in New York City.

About 100 demonstrators joined the thousands in the Easter parade on Manhattan's Fifth Avenue, handing out literature calling the war in Viet Nam "immoral, illegal and inprinciples."

The avenue between 57th and 46th streets was closed to traffic as more than 160,000 persons overflowed the sidewalks showing off their holiday finery after attending church.

A group of French students complained they were caught in the crowds and could not find the "parade."

Soviet's Moon Plans Hastened

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is preparing for the celebration Tuesday of the fifth anniversary of Yuri Gagarin's first manned space flight, with optimistic talk about putting a man on the moon.

Soviet cosmonauts have been giving indications that their government will attempt man's great lunar adventure sooner than had been expected.

Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, March 18, 1965, said in Budapest that a Russian will land on the moon as early as 1968.

Gagarin told the Czechoslovak news agency that Soviet space research had advanced more rapidly than planned. He said he was convinced there would be a man on the moon within the next five years.

Gherman Titov, the second Soviet cosmonaut, predicted Sunday that the moon would become a giant space center where ships would be built for flights "into the depths of the universe." He talked of complicated operations being undertaken in space by men "soon."

The cosmonauts, all speaking in connection with the Gagarin anniversary, made no mention of President Johnson's claim that the United States would beat the Soviet Union in putting a man on the moon. The President gave 1970 as the target for the U.S. program.

The cosmonauts' optimism gets support from two big successes the Soviet space program has already achieved in 1966.

First came the soft landing on the moon Feb. 3 by the unmanned Luna 9 spaceship.

On April 3 Luna 10 was put into orbit around the moon, another first and another essential for getting a man there. The most discussed plan for a manned landing calls for the trip to be made in stages, jumping off for the final one from a lunar satellite.

One possible next step in the Soviet program is a manned flight to explore the vicinity of the moon without attempting a landing.

Soviet space flights are never announced in advance. The cosmonauts give hints in general terms, but the world can only guess the rest.

A current rumor is that another space spectacular will be launched Tuesday on the anniversary of Gagarin's flight.

No Income Tax Extension Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers won't get an extension this year of the April 15 deadline for filing their individual income tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said today.

Friday, April 15 is a regular business day, an IRS spokesman said. He added the only time the deadline is extended is when April 15 falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday.

To meet the deadline, IRS said returns should be postmarked no later than midnight this coming Friday.

Goldwater To Speak

CHICAGO (AP) —Barry Goldwater, honorary chairman of the Free Society Assn., will be its feature speaker here May 17.

Once Around Roundtown

DICK PLUM happily reported that "Grandma died today" . . . She didn't die last year about this time . . . But the year before that, she did. And for several years before. . .

That's Plum's way of saying he was able to see the Cincinnati Reds in their opening baseball game of the season in the Queen City . . . The "death of Grandma" is the baseball fans' traditional way of explaining his absence from the office.

Happy, too, to report the death of Grandma were Robert Call, John Eshelman and William Radcliff . . . Unhappy because Grandma didn't die is Dudley Carpenter . . . He must stay home and labor over a hot desk. The five men are directors of Third National Bank.

Collegian Fails Human Torch Try

WASHINGTON (AP)—A college student doused himself with gasoline in front of the White House in what police said was an attempt to burn himself to death in protest against the Viet Nam war. He was seized as he tried to strike two matches.

Police said Arthur Zinner, a slender, bespectacled 20-year-old Boston University student, was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for observation.

Zinner arrived in Washington by bus early Sunday, police said, and telephoned two radio stations telling them of his plan. Radio station personnel notified police. Two detectives and a Secret Service agent grabbed Zinner when he poured gasoline from two plastic bottles on himself and tried to strike the matches.

The youth offered no resistance.

In New York, the youth's father, Jack Zinner, said his son was not active in any peace group that he knew of, but said he must have been "carried away by what the students are doing."

Bosch Stock Seen Climbing

Dominican Leader May Be Chief Again

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Juan Bosch, self-styled spokesman underprivileged, may soon have a second chance as president of his troubled nation.

Cheering delegates nominated the 56-year-old writer-philosopher Sunday as the presidential candidate of the Dominican Revolutionary party in the June elections.

Bosch, whose followers triggered the 1965 revolution in which the United States intervened, is considered the front runner in a contest expected to include at least three other major presidential aspirants.

Bosch couches his speech in simple folky language that appeal to the common man.

His upper-class critics see distortion, bitterness and vindictivene woven killfully into his oratory. But in the neighborhood grocery stores, bars and fruit stands, the ordinary folk cluster transfixed around their radios when Bosch speaks.

"Juan Bo' lo abe todo — Juan Bosch knows it all," they say reverently.

Bosch is a political paradox. A left-of-center liberal, he is damned by other liberals while conservatives are among his staunchest partisans. He has often been accused of playing up to the Communists, but Red leaders are known to fear his hold over their favorite prey, the common man.

Bosch took office in February 1963 as the first freely elected Dominican president in 30 years. Prospects looked promising. He had a mandate from more than 60 per cent of the electorate. Sugar, keystone of the Dominican economy, was selling on the world market at 11 cents a pound. It brings only 2 cents now.

But the political machine Bosch had helped create became enmeshed in a factional power struggle. Just seven months after he took over, a military coup forced him back into exile. There were no demonstrations or protests on his behalf.

Last spring followers of Bosch touched off bitter fighting in an attempt to bring him back from exile in Puerto Rico.

Annual Egg Roll Attracts Kiddies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of tots in their best Easter bibs and tuckers turned up at the White House today to roll eggs — a tradition dating back to Ulysses S. Grant's administration.

Under a pleasant sun, in a cooling breeze the children filed into the big back yard, most of them on the hands of parents.

The rules of the game are simple. Kids roll eggs down the slope in a southerly direction from the Truman balcony. The one whose egg goes farthest is supposed to get the competing eggs.

President Remains At His Texas Ranch

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson got a relief pitcher to open the American League baseball season in Washington today so he could stay on and enjoy a post-Easter holiday at his Texas ranch.

He set no time for his return to the capital.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey got the job of throwing out the first ball at the Washington-Cleveland opener.

Vaccinations For Cancer Seen

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University medical researchers say they may have discovered a way to treat cancer by vaccination.

Results they claim for a four-year program so far include:

— Two cancer patients, earlier given up as hopeless cases, completely freed of their tumors.

— Eight others once considered beyond help still alive, their cancers either halted or growing more slowly.

— Two patients with advanced tumors, their lives believed prolonged by the treatments.

Others among the 20 patients treated showed no improvement, said Dr. Paul L. Wolf, Wayne State professor of pathology and director of experimental pathology at the Detroit Institute of Cancer Research.

Failure in these cases, Dr. Wolf said, probably came because the disease was too far advanced and the patient's body no longer capable of producing cancer-fighting antibodies.

The Wayne group's vaccine, he explained, aids the victim's body in producing these antibodies.

Many cancer patients are lost Dr. Wolf said, because their bodies don't fight the disease. The body recognizes the malignant cells as part of it, and doesn't react by producing the chemicals needed to kill them.

The Wayne State group combines cancerous cells taken from the patient with chemicals obtained from the cells of rabbits. Then the combination is injected into the patient.

His body recognizes the matter as foreign and produces antibodies to fight it. In the process, Dr. Wolf said, the antibodies may kill or retard the tumor.

The researchers, working with mice and human patients at Northville State Hospital, reported success with reducing cancers of the skin, liver and breast.

Athens Seeks Regional Health Unit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A proposed regional demonstration health center in Athens would be "most helpful and useful" to Ohio and the nation, Gov. James A Rhodes said today.

He said the Ohio Office of Opportunity will present the proposal to the federal Appalachia Commission and request funds under the Appalachia Act.

Athens plans to build a new community hospital that would be the core of the health center. It will be operated by the Sheltering Arms Hospital Foundation, which has begun a fund-raising drive.

Ohio University has provided a 90-acre tract for the new hospital and would assist in staffing and operating the health center.

The hospital would be eligible for a $1 million federal grant under the Hill-Burton Act.

Regional health centers are provided for under the Appalachia Act of 1965. Rhodes said the Athens center would be valuable as a pilot project, besides directly benefitting Southeast Ohio.

Wellston in Line For Turkey Plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes announced today that southeastern Ohio may be in line for a poultry processing plant that could employ 1,000 workers and the likely location is Wellston.

Rhodes reported the Ralston Purina Co. of St. Louis, Mo., may built a 130,000 square foot turkey processing plant in Ohio's Appalachia area.

He said Wellston, Jackson County, is possibly first in line for the plant providing the city can provide water and sewer service to meet a maximum demand for 4 million gallons daily.

Production could begin as early as June, 1967, Rhodes said he was informed.

Stargazer Satellite Conks Out

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "We're heartbroken," said a space agency spokesman in announcing the failure of America's Stargazer satellite after only two days in orbit.

For an unknown reason, the orbiting astronomical observatory (OAO) lost all its battery power Sunday, and the two-ton satellite whirled silently and uselessly around the globe.

It never had a chance to exercise its 10 telescopes, which astronomer had hoped would unlock secrets of the stars and perhaps provide clues to the origin of the universe.

Scientists had worked for years to perfect OAO, the first astronomical observatory ever sent into space. All were disappointed at the failure but said they hoped it would teach them lessons about the second OAO, scheduled for launching early in 1967.

The lessons will be costly. The satellite, one of the heaviest and the most complex unmanned payload ever launched by the United States, had a price tag of about $50 million. The Atlas-Agena rocket that hoisted it from Cape Kennedy Friday cost about $12 million. Several thousand dollars were added to the cost by five postponements of the flight.

The failure of an Atlas-Centaur rocket Thursday pushed the total cost of the back-to-back fizzles here to more than $75 million.

Lone Candidate Gets Nary a Vote

SPEARMAT, Tex (AP) — Hansford County School Board members are perplexed over how to fill a vacancy on the board — if one actually exists.

A board election was held April 2. L. L. Edge, who has served on the board for 21 years, was the only name on the ballot for Precinct 2.

But no one went to the polls to vote, not even Edge. He said he was sick that day.

The state attorney general's office was asked for a ruling. It replied: "We have never heard of such a thing happening and can find no record of any decision made in such a situation in the past."

Under state law Edge is the board representative from that precinct until a successor is sworn in.

Cherry Blossoms Fade

WASHINGTON (AP) —There may not be many cherry blossoms for the 5-day Cherry Blossom Festival which opens Tuesday. The trees bloomed early this year.

Christians Observe Holy Week Climax

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From humble chapels along the twisting alleyways of old Jerusalem to stately churches adorning broad avenues, the world's Christians — rich and poor, the mighty and the humble — gathered in their places of worship to celebrate Easter Sunday, the climax of Holy Week.

Pilgrims in Jerusalem paid homage in churches ranging from the tiny to ornate Byzantine structures.

A few Protestants knelt in a field outside the city, praying before a cleft in a rock, which they believe is the spot where Christ was buried.

Across the storied valley, on the Mount of Olive, Lutherans held services in the Church of Mary Magdalen near the Garden of Gethsemane.

Some of the pilgrims retraced the steps of Jesus along Via Dolorosa to Calvary

In jam-packed St. Peter's Square in Rome, Pope Paul VI in his annual Easter message pleaded for an end to war, racism, nationalism, and social conflict.

The Pope termed the celebration of Christ's Resurrection "history's eternal springtime."

If all men listened to the Eater message, he said, he felt confident about "the posibility of this triumph of unity in love and justice, in liberty and progress."

In Fredericksburg, Tex., President Johnson attended services at St. Barnabas Episcopal church with his family. Daughter Luci — who became Catholic, as is her fiance, Pat Nugent — later attended a Roman Catholic service.

There were peace marches in England and in New York City.

About 100 demonstrators joined the thousands in the Easter parade on Manhattan's Fifth Avenue, handing out literature calling the war in Viet Nam "immoral, illegal and in-principles."

The avenue between 57th and 46th streets was closed to traffic as more than 160,000 persons overflowed the sidewalks showing off their holiday finery after attending church.

A group of French students complained they were caught in the crowds and could not find the "parade."

Noted British Satirist Dies At Age of 62

LONDON (AP) — Evelyn Waugh, whose pungent satires made him one of Britain's most successful novelties, died Sunday at the country home where he lived the squire's life he so often lampooned.

A a writer, Waugh was acclaimed by critics all over the world as witty, sophisticated and sometimes brilliant. In private life, he was retiring and avoided publicity.

Born in London, the son of a publisher of modest means, Waugh became fascinated by the social whirl of the British capital. He attended Oxford in the mid-1920's and gained entry into hte glittering set he so admired.

The novels he wrote before World War II were satirical studies of the social set.

He predicted the unrest will be "settled by peaceful means through normal processes of negotiation." Ball said all factions involved "are determined to resist the aggression from the north."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States' chief disarmament negotiator believes there is a chance of obtaining agreement this year on a worldwide treaty banning spread of nuclear weapons.

William C. Foster, who returns shortly to the 17-nation disarmament conference at Geneva, said the need for such a treaty is urgent because it is becoming easier and cheaper to make nuclear weapons.

He said some nations, which he did not name, "feel that perhaps they could gain prestige" by manufacturing such weapons. Foster appeared on NBC's television-radio program "Meet the Press."

Steelmen Cool On LBJ Plea

Curb on Building Said 'Impractical'

CLEVELAND (AP)— Steel Magazine reported today a negative reaction in the steel industry to President Johnson's plea for restraint on capital spending to keep inflation at bay.

"The appeal is impractical,' the magainze said it was told by steelmakers who maintained that modernization doesn't cause inflation and suggested a cutback in "nonessential" federal spending instead.

"Capital spending isn't a faucet you can turn on and off," Steel quoted an unidentified steelmaker as saying. "If we curtail a carefully planned spending program right in the middle, we will be under utilizing a lot of modern equipment,' he said.

"The road to higher taxes is frequently camouflaged by political smoke — and many people are putting that interpretation on President Johnson's latest round of telephone calls to industry," the metalworking weekly said.

The production of steel for ingots and castings continues to rise, Steel reported.

"The up-and-down pattern of recent weeks suggests the possibility the ingot rate may level out on a high plateau," the magazine said. Estimated ingot output last week was 2,750,000 tons.

This is about 6,000 tons more than the previous week and the highest level since last May.

Steel's composite on No. 1 heavy melting scrap was off another 67 cents last week. The price now stands at $31.83 a ton, a decrease of $3.84 in the last month.

Sluggish demand for the steel-making grades of scrap is forcing prices down at important consumer points," Steel explained.

Steelmen Cool On LBJ Plea

Curb on Building Said 'Impractical'

CLEVELAND (AP)— Steel Magazine reported today a negative reaction in the steel industry to President Johnson's plea for restraint on capital spending to keep inflation at bay.

"The appeal is impractical,' the magainze said it was told by steelmakers who maintained that modernization doesn't cause inflation and suggested a cutback in "nonessential" federal spending instead.

"Capital spending isn't a faucet you can turn on and off," Steel quoted an unidentified steelmaker as saying. "If we curtail a carefully planned spending program right in the middle, we will be under utilizing a lot of modern equipment,' he said.

"The road to higher taxes is frequently camouflaged by political smoke — and many people are putting that interpretation on President Johnson's latest round of telephone calls to industry," the metalworking weekly said.

The production of steel for ingots and castings continues to rise, Steel reported.

"The up-and-down pattern of recent weeks suggests the possibility the ingot rate may level out on a high plateau," the magazine said. Estimated ingot output last week was 2,750,000 tons.

This is about 6,000 tons more than the previous week and the highest level since last May.

Steel's composite on No. 1 heavy melting scrap was off another 67 cents last week. The price now stands at $31.83 a ton, a decrease of $3.84 in the last month.

Sluggish demand for the steelmaking grades of scrap is forcing prices down at important consumer points," Steel explained.

A slackening in U.S. ground operations coincided with the political uncertainty in Saigon, but an American spokesman said new operations were being planned. Government forces reported repulsing a Communist attack on a Special Forces camp in Kien Tuong Province about 45 miles west of Saigon near the Cambodian border. They claimed 140 Reds killed, most of them by air attack, against light government casualties.

Heavy casualties were reported among the five or six U.S. Special Forces men — "Green Berets"—at the camp.

U.S. planes kept up their daily bombardments of North Viet Nam Monday, but the number of missions in the South was down from the usual figure of 450 to 500 to about 300. Reliable sources attributed the curtailment to a temporary shortage of bombs and other explosives resulting from a transportation problem. They said U.S. officials hope to overcome the shortage quickly.

While an interlude of calm prevailed in Saigon's streets Easter Sunday, there were signs of a lessening of tension in Da Nang, where anti-Ky military officers virtually declared their independence of the government last week.

Some of the 1,000 American civilians and military personnel evacuated Saturday from Da Nang because of the danger of fighting between antigovernment and loyalist troops began returning to the northern city today.

The mayor of Da Nang, Dr. Tguyen Van Man, who had been threatened with execution by Premier Ky, said: "All the people and the military want a civilian government as soon as possible. We will work to this end. We need the Americans to help us."

Dr. Man said he still regarded himself as mayor, even though Ky has named a replacement. "No one has informed me I am fired," he said.

He indicated that Ky's government had decided to back down on its threat to occupy the city, headquarters of the army's northernmost 1st Corps, with military force. It was Ky's dismisal of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi a commander of the 1st Corps and virtual overlord of the country's five northern provinces March 10 that precipitated the nationwide unrest.

The new 1st Corps command er, Maj. Gen. Thon That Dinh, said earlier the troops were not needed to restore order. Some barricades in the city started going down.

The atmosphere also was momentarily more relaxed in Hue, another center of Buddhist-led unrest. Only a handful of American and other foreign newsmen circulated in the old imperial capital, which like Da Nang was placed off limits to U.S. military personnel three weeks ago.

Radio Hue, now in the hands of an antigovernment student "Struggle Committee," cautioned Americans in an English language broadcast Sunday to remember they are guests and not hosts in South Viet Nam. The broadcast urged the United States not to use its "material might and terrible weapons" to support Ky's regime.

Presence of Inflation Is Debated Heatedly

NEW YORK (AP) — The great debate — do we or don't we have inflation? — is growing in intensity.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents says flatly: "Inflation is here."

Gardner Ackley, President Johnson's chief economic adviser, says he is more "hopeful and confident" than many private economists that the nation can avoid inflation without an immediate tax increase.

The purchasing executives, who are close to the price situation, say of inflation: "The only question is whether it is creeping, crawling, walking, running or galloping."

The association reports that in its March poll of members 76 per cent reported paying higher prices, up from 62 per cent in February. The figure is the highest since September 1956 when a steel strike settlement triggered general price rises.

For the first time in nine years no member reported an over-all price decline. The figure had been running at 1 per cent for the last few months.

Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said in a copyright interview in U.S. News & World Report that the administration could not "tolerate for very long the rate of price increase of the past months."

However, he added that there are signs that inflationary pressures are coming under control.

"Recently there has been a slower advance in bank credits," he said. "The money supply actually fell in February. We have seen the postponement of a lot of bond issues."

He noted that wholesale prices have climbed 4 per cent in the past year but said, "Now it looks as if we have turned the corner on that one.

"The trend of farm and food prices for the rest of this year ought to be leveling out or possibly declining."

In a move against inflation, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler urged bankers to "turn down or scale back" speculative and less-productive loans.

He said banks have to curb their lending activities because the growth of credit "threatens inflation."

He added that it is better to weed out the "less-deserving" loan requests than to have skyrocketing interest rates bar some borrowers.

The Chase Manhattan Bank of New York commented: "The best way to cure inflation is to bring public spending into line with our public resources."

It said a reduction in federal spending is preferable to raising taxes because "tax increases, in the short run at least, will not be accompanied by an equivalent reduction in private spending."

Several more big corporations agreed to heed Johnson's request to trim expenditures for new plant and equipment as a means of warding off inflation. They included Westinghouse Electric Corp., Consolidated Foods Corp., H.J. Heinz Co., Aluminum Co. of America, Reynolds Metals Co., Continental Oil Co., and Xerox Corp.

"This is a time for restraint on expenditures in all areas of the economy," said John W. Harper, president of Alcoa.

The unemployment rate went up to 3.8 per cent of the labor force from 3.7 per cent in March but the nonfarm payroll went up by 520,000 at the same time to a record for this season. The reason for the jobless rate going up, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported, was an influx of teen-agers on the labor market.

Allied Chemical Corp. was reported to have raised its prices for sulphuric acid, the most widely used chemical. Allied declined comment. The new prices were understood to be $26.75 a ton for 100 per cent acid, up from $26.05, and $24.95 a ton for 66 per cent acid, up from $24.30.

Southland Paper Co., a major supplier of newsprint in the South, boosted its price $5 a ton to $140 a ton. Other newsprint producers earlier had hiked prices $10 a ton and then cut back to $5.

Automobile production declined during the week to an estimated 145,700 passenger cars from 195,024 the previous week because production facilities were not open on Good Friday or Saturday.

Car sales rose to a record 847,135 in March. The old record was 842,000 in October 1965.

Steel output climbed 1.3 per cent to 2,744,000 tons for the week, the highest since last June, from 2,709,000 tons the previous week.

Ohio Couple To Give Up Their 'Baby' — a Chimp

POLAND, Ohio (AP) — The baby at the Sylvester Mermosh home is different.

Although not yet 3, she is hairy all over.

Other babies walk on the floor. Samantha swings from chair to chair.

Some day, the Mermoshes know, Samantha will have to go. Probably to a zoo.

Samantha, called Sam for short, is a 23-pound chimpanzee.

Born in the Congo, she was 8 months old when Mermosh bought her from a New York pet shop as a surprise gift for his wife, Judy, in February 1964.

"He knew how much I wanted one," Mrs. Mermosh said. "On a trip to Florida, I fell in love with Henry, a year-old chimpanzee we saw there. I'm a kook that way."

Samantha is being brought up like a human baby, clothes and all.

Mrs. Mermosh had no experience as an animal trainer.

"All I knew," she said, "was that if you don't give the chimp baby love the first year, it will pine away and die."

Samantha will grow to 150 pounds and 5 feet tall. She'll acquire the strength of three men. Chimps reach maturity at 10 or 12, can live as long as 50, but can't be trusted by humans after they're 6 or 7.

"When she begins chasing me around the apartment, that's when we'll get rid of her," Mrs. Mermosh said. "Now she's quite docile — and no more destructive than a 2-year-old child."

Nuclear Space Age

From now on in the space race, payloads will become larger and heavier. It is one thing to put an astronaut in space, but it is quite another to give him the tools he needs to accomplish anything while in orbit or, later, while on another planet.

In a few years, if present timetables are completed more satisfactorily than the recent Gemini voyage was, astronauts will set foot on the moon. They will find, in addition to the thrill of a new conquest, a totally hostile environment.

Before they can do much exploring, ore sampling or any of the thousand and one other things scientists are waiting for, lunar explorers will have to build themselves some sort of shelter from the intense heat of the day and the equally uncomfortable cold of the night.

They will need some type of enclosed shelter to work and live in, one with an artificially produced atmosphere which will support human life. All of this will require power operated equipment and an electric generating plant to maintain what in effect will be an earth city away from home.

All of these power needs, in the opinion of many scientists, can be met only with nuclear energy. In fact, the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have teamed up to produce the Nerva nuclear engines. These engines are designed to power spacecraft of the future and may be used on orbiting laboratories servicing astronauts on prolonged stays in space.

Nuclear power is the ultimate motivating force for space travel because of its compact size and minimal fuel requirements. The potential of future reactors is revealed by the announcement that AEC researchers are working on a flying reactor, a little larger than an office desk, with the capacity for supplying twice the power of Hoover Dam.

With such sophisticated equipment on the moon, colonization by earthmen would not seem such a fantastic idea.

What Makes Tornadoes?

Tornadoes, which have already made their appearance this year, occur whenever a large area of warm and more or less stagnant air persists for a longer period than usual.

Normally, high and low pressure air masses move over any given region in cycles with the latter being present at the time tornadoes form. Tornadoes do not occur when a high-pressure mass moves in on schedule and pushes out the warm, still air of a low-pressure air mass.

However, when a high-pressure mass is overdue, the warm, stagnant air gets warmer and warmer, creating conditions conducive to tornadoes. Midwest states are more subject to tornadoes than most other regions because of the many flat, open spaces, which permit stagnant air masses to be warmed up uniformly and over large areas.

A tornado, incidentally, is defined as a whirling wind, accompanied by a funnel-shaped cloud, very violent and destructive and progressing in a narrow path, often for many miles over flat land.

Tornadoes occur in many parts of the world, but most frequently in the Mississippi Valley. The wind is too violent to be measured, and the barometric pressure falls so rapidly that wooden structures are often lifted from their foundations and burst open by the air confined within them.

Cycle in South Viet Nam

Although it would be foolish to be dogmatic from a point 8,000 miles away about anything that goes on in South Vietnam, one is legitimately troubled by the recurrence of a certain pattern every time the South Vietnamese Buddhists, or a minority sect thereof, attempt to overthrow a government in the midst of a war that should be all-demanding.

There is the behavior of the politically potent monk, the string-puller Thich Tri Quang, for one thing. Everybody calls Tri Quang "enigmatic," which means that nobody wants to tab him as a Communist sympathizer despite factual evidence that, as the late Marguerite Higgins reported, he was twice arrested by the French colonial office for dealings with the Red Ho Chi Minh and once served with Communist front groups working with Comrad Ho's Viet Minh army.

It was Thich Tri Quang, so one recalls, who from his headquarters in the Xa Loi Pagoda in Saigon, marshalled the gruesome procession of "suicides" - by - burning in order to turn the West against the government of the late President Diem. Miss Higgins, at the end of one of her Vietnamese stays in which she brought her absolute honesty to bear on the Orient which she knew so well, wrote that Tri Quang wanted "Diem's head, and not on a silver platter but wrapped in an American flag." It surprised her that he eventually got it, and with the aid of American co-conspirators.

This time, as I write, Tri Quang is credited with wanting a power position in any and all future South Vietnamese governments. Now, it could be that the Buddhists should have a controlling place inside any representative South Vietnam civil government. But Tri Quang himself is the leader of only one of a number of Buddhist sects, most of which are entirely non - political. Moreover, Buddhists of all types constitute only a third of the South Vietnamese population, the rest being Confucianists, Catholics, animists, Taoists, Tindus, Muslims, devotees of the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao religion and even a scattering of Mennonites and Baptists. So why Thich Tri Quang should be accepted as Warwick, the King - Maker, in South Vietnam, is a mystery, at least from the nose-counter's standpoint. The demagogic monk, who preserves an owlish silence when he is asked to state his positive political beliefs, is obviously power - intoxicated, and such men, like Cassius of the lean and hungry look, are dangerous whether or not they are Communist sympathizers.

Our Ambassador to South Vietnam, Henry Cabot Lodge, helped Thich Tri Quang on two separate occasions in the past. In September of 1963 he saved Tri Quang from the wrath of President Diem by giving him asylum in the U.S. Embassy. Later, he, along with the Kennedy Administration, acquiesced in Tri Quang's demads that Diem must go. But on the third time around Lodge decided to stand by the Ky government despite the warning from Tri Quang that the Buddhists must be admitted to power. A South Vietnamese friend of mine who has served his country in Washington, and who made his last trip home a little over a year ago, tells me that Lodge's "reversal of his old behavior" will result in a sudedn agitation for his removal as Ambassador. It will be interesting to see whether this prediction comes true or not.

My friend also tells me that the real target of the Tri Quang group is Nguyen Van Thieu, who has been the strongly anti-Communist "Board Chairman" in the Ky government. This is ominous, for it might portend a take - over in South Vietnam by "neutralists" who will ultimately do the bidding of the Communists.

My South Vietnamese friend, who is critical of the behavior of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency people in Saigon and the surrounding countryside, doesn't like the looks of things at all. He distrusts the way in which Vice President Humphry slipped over into a near-agreement with Bobby Kennedy on the issue of Viet Cong participation in the Saigon government, "after elections." He doesn't think our Maj. Gen Edward Lansdale, who was supposed to solve the problem of democratizing the Vietnamese countryside, is making a go of it. These are harsh thoughts, but they are those of a responsible patriot, so I am keeping my fingers crossed.

WAY BACK in 1908, Critic Henry L. Mencken was pained to note that current best-seller lists were dominated by authors like Gene Stratton Porter, John Fox, Jr., and Harold Bell Wright. In an early issue of his Smart Set Magazine, Mencken commented, "Our American manufacturers of fiction, having the souls of fudge-besotted high school girls, behold the human comedy as a mixture of a fashionable wedding and a three-alarm fire with the music of Chopin; the pornographic lady novelists of England, meanwhile, having the outlook of elderly and immoral virgins, see it as a Paris peep-show."

Gone, all gone, the "fudge besotted high school girls," the pornographic English lady novelists—even the Paris peep-shows! I wonder what crusty Mr. Mencken would have to say about some of the swill, masquerading as "literature," that is being ladled out to shock-proof audiences today?

What is the best way to stop a sneeze?

In most instances, it is better not to stop a sneeze at all. Sneezing is nature's method of getting rid of an irritating substance from the nose. An irritating odor can stimulate a sneeze, too.

The nostrils should never be squeezed tightly to suppress a sneeze. Injury to the eardrum can result from this.

There are times, both medically and socially, when it is important to prevent sneezing. A safe method is to press the finger firmly between the upper lip and the nose.

What is the cause of peritonitis after an operation?

The peritoneum is a very delicate membrane which lines the entire cavity of the abdomen.

When it is inflamed or infected the condition is called peritonitis.

A severe attack of appendicitis or an infection of the gall-bladder can be responsible for peritonitis, especially if the surgery has been delayed or complicated.

Peritonitis can also occur through infections of the female genital tract, and sometimes by germs brought to the peritoneum through the blood stream.

Once a dread complication of surgery, peritonitis today can be controlled and cured with many of the antibiotics.

What is the best way to choose a laxative?

The best way to choose a laxative is to try to avoid using any.

A well - balanced diet including fresh and cooked fruits, vegetables, cereals and plenty of waetr can avoid the dependence on laxatives.

Exercise, too, in moderation can be extremely helpful in aiding regularity.

Too often there is undue concern about time - clock regularity of bowel movements. Patience itself can be a good laxative. Missing one day is not as serious as many people think.

Of course, any marked change in bowel habit should be brought to the attention of the doctor. He may prescribe a laxative.

Some laxatives stimulate the bowel function, by actually irritating it. Others act as lubricants, and still others work by increasing bulk formation and roughage.

Unless your water intake has been limited by your doctor, try six glasses of water each day. It may be all the laxative you need.

Pearls Replaced by Diamonds

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Until diamonds were discovered in South Africa only 100 or so years ago, pearls were a girl's best friend. They were the most precious of all jewels.

Living in a mobile home isn't exactly cheap. Rental ranges from $25 to $60 a month for most parking lots, but — now hear this — some luxury sites cost up to $450. Incidentally, the median income of mobile home owners, many of whom are retired, is $6,200 a year.

Health help: Many doctors believe that one way to reduce the heart - threatening level of blood cholesterol is to cut your intake of eggs to no more than four a week.

To Oklahoma City went the honor of introducing the nation's parking meter in July 1935. The new gadget, now the bane of millions of motorists, was promptly dubbed "the snitching post."

Ever wonder why brides wear veils? The custom was started by the ancient Greeks. They thought the veils would protect brides from evil spirits flying about during the marriage ceremony.

Worth remembering: "It's great to be great, but it's greater to be human."

He adopted this pose on the advice of an actor friend, Francois - Joseph Jalma, who told the emperor this would rid him of his undignified habit of gesturing nervously in public.

The Business World

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson is using his persuasiveness in an attempt to swing businessmen into line behind his war on inflation.

The President has used pressure, he has called businessmen on the phone and he has entertained them at a White House dinner.

All of these means have been employed to get his message across: Hold the line against price and wage increases beyond the guidelines his Administration has set up.

The big question: How successful is he going to be with the economy booming and the Viet Nam war increasing pressure?

The administration and its economists feel that the economy with its twin pressures is in danger of overheating and generating inflation.

One of the first developments that brought presidential pressure was the increase in aluminum and copper prices. Johnson immediately announced that a substantial amount of these metals would be released from the national stockpile to hold prices steady.

The result was that both industries rolled back their increases.

In each case the administration made i tplain that it considered price increases not only unwarranted but unpatriotic while the Viet Nam war was being pressed.

Then the tobacco industry announced a wholesale price increase for cigarettes that would have been reflected in a boost of about a cent a package at retail.

Johnson let it be known that he did not consider this hike in the interest of the consumers. The industry halved its price increase and this was acceptable.

The President next turned his attention to curtailing corporate expenditures for plant expansion and modernization as a means of heading off inflation.

He turned to his telephone technique and called 25 to 30 businessmen to ask them to cut back on these expenditures.

Then he called 150 of the nations's top businessmen to the White House for a dinner at which he again urged a slow-down on capital spending.

He was reported to have received considerable support. Half a dozen companies later publicly said they would heed.

Nuclear Space Age

From now on in the space race, payloads will become larger and heavier. It is one thing to put an astronaut in space, but it is quite another to give him the tools he needs to accomplish anything while in orbit or, later, while on another planet.

In a few years, if present timetables are completed more satisfactorily than the recent Gemini voyage was, astronauts will set foot on the moon. They will find, in addition to the thrill of a new conquest, a totally hostile environment.

Before they can do much exploring, ore sampling or any of the thousand and one other things scientists are waiting for, lunar explorers will have to build themselves some sort of shelter from the intense heat of the day and the equally uncomfortable cold of the night.

They will need some type of enclosed shelter to work and live in, one with an artificially produced atmosphere which will support human life. All of this will require power operated equipment and an electric generating plant to maintain what in effect will be an earth city away from home.

All of these power needs, in the opinion of many scientists, can be met only with nuclear energy. In fact, the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have teamed up to produce the Nerva nuclear engines. These engines are designed to power spacecraft of the future and may be used on orbiting laboratories servicing astronauts on prolonged stays in space.

Nuclear power is the ultimate motivating force for space travel because of its compact size and minimal fuel requirements. The potential of future reactors is revealed by the announcement that AEC researchers are working on a flying reactor, a little larger than an office desk, with the capacity for supplying twice the power of Hoover Dam.

With such sophisticated equipment on the moon, colonization by earthmen would not seem such a fantastic idea.

What Makes Tornadoes?

Tornadoes, which have already made their appearance this year, occur whenever a large area of warm and more or less stagnant air persists for a longer period than usual.

Normally, high and low pressure air masses move over any given region in cycles with the latter being present at the time tornadoes form. Tornadoes do not occur when a high-pressure mass moves in on schedule and pushes out the warm, still air of a low-pressure air mass.

However, when a high-pressure mass is overdue, the warm, stagnant air gets warmer and warmer, creating conditions conducive to tornadoes. Midwest states are more subject to tornadoes than most other regions because of the many flat, open spaces, which permit stagnant air masses to be warmed up uniformly and over large areas.

A tornado, incidentally, is defined as a whirling wind, accompanied by a funnel-shaped cloud, very violent and destructive and progressing in a narrow path, often for many miles over flat land.

Tornadoes occur in many parts of the world, but most frequently in the Mississippi Valley. The wind is too violent to be measured, and the barometric pressure falls so rapidly that wooden structures are often lifted from their foundations and burst open by the air confined within them.

Cycle in South Viet Nam

Although it would be foolish to be dogmatic from a point 8,000 miles away about anything that goes on in South Vietnam, one is legitimately troubled by the recurrence of a certain pattern every time the South Vietnamese Buddhists, or a minority sect thereof, attempt to overthrow a government in the midst of a war that should be all-demanding.

There is the behavior of the politically potent monk, the string-puller Thich Tri Quang, for one thing. Everybody calls Tri Quang "enigmatic," which means that nobody wants to tab him as a Communist sympathizer despite factual evidence that, as the late Marguerite Higgins reported, he was twice arrested by the French colonial office for dealings with the Red Ho Chi Minh and once served with Communist front groups working with Comrad Ho's Viet Minh army.

It was Thich Tri Quang, so one recalls, who from his headquarters in the Xa Loi Pagoda in Saigon, marshalled the gruesome procession of "suicides" - by - burning in order to turn the West against the government of the late President Diem. Miss Higgins, at the end of one of her Vietnamese stays in which she brought her absolute honesty to bear on the Orient which she knew so well, wrote that Tri Quang wanted "Diem's head, and not on a silver platter but wrapped in an American flag." It surprised her that he eventually got it, and with the aid of American co-conspirators.

This time, as I write, Tri Quang is credited with wanting a power position in any and all future South Vietnamese governments. Now, it could be that the Buddhists should have a controlling place inside any representative South Vietnam civil government. But Tri Quang himself is the leader of only one of a number of Buddhist sects, most of which are entirely non - political. Moreover, Buddhists of all types constitute only a third of the South Vietnamese population, the rest being Confucianists, Catholics, animists, Taoists, Tindus, Muslims, devotees of the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao religion and even a scattering of Mennonites and Baptists. # Ohio Communities Recall Being Hit By Tornadoes Just One Year Ago

PITTSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—A Civil War memorial statue of President Garfield stands ramrod straight in rural Pittsfield today, a symbol of communities which have rebuilt after devastation by last year's Palm Sunday tornadoes.

April 11, 1965, dawned bright, warm and humid over Ohio. But before the day ended, 57 were dead and millions of dollars of property was damaged as tornadoes peeled communities from the face of the earth.

In Pittsfield, the highest object left standing was the base of the war memorial, its statue sprawled on its back in the mud below.

The people of the stricken areas were also on their backs: Homes destroyed, loved ones missing or dead, and entire communities shattered.

Today, new homes stand on the sites of their predecessors. New hopes are expressed by the people.

Most residents of this southern Lorain County community have rebuilt their fugures. Determination and community spirit and help from fellow Americans put Pittsfield back on its foundation.

Many of the storm's survivors say a spirit of cooperation and resourcefulness — evident from the first hours of the tragedy — has increased. They report a greater feeling of togetherness, a new community bond.

Residents of the Bluffton-Beaverdam area note a new community attitude—a stronger feeling of neighborliness.

One survivor of the twisters in that area is Arthur Swank, 74, whose home, barn and outbuildings were crushed.

Today, his family lives in a new 60-foot mobile home on the site of their former house.

About 200 yards down the road lives the Carl Marshall family. They live in a new house and this summer will get back in the livestock business. The Tornado curtailed Marshall's farming activities, but he is gradually rebuilding again.

The Toledo area remembers the night as a bad dream, a nightmare and a terrifying experience. But still the area is marked by new and rebuilt houses and a general feeling that life is continuing as usual.

"People were wonderful — we'll never forget them," says one resident of the area, Mrs. Wesley Brooks.

"Once in a while we get together and talk about that night, but we often wonder if it ever actually happened."

"I'll say one thing, it makes you appreciate life more when you find your family all together."

Mrs. Brooks, whose home was destroyed in the storm, lives with her family in a trailer across the street until the new house is finished.

All but two of the neighbors have moved back into homes rebuilt after the tornadoes.

"I've been told all but one man is coming back," says William Malik, who is still picking slivers of glass and wood from his lawn. He said the man who isn't coming back lost his wife, his child, his house, his job and his eye.

"We're so thankful we're still alive," says Mrs. Melvin Greb, as she explained how the tornadoes ripped their home apart and sent her husband and two of their children to the hospital.

But the Greb family made changes in their rebuilt home including trapdoors to give them access under the house. "We've used them a few times already'.' Mrs. Greb says.

Accompanying the rebuilding has been another type of building designed to assure that the same type of destruction is not visited upon the many communities again.

More effective severe weather warning devices have been put into effect.

A new national warning system operated by Civil Defense starts this year.

For Ohio, teletype circuits will extend from weather bureaus to communications headquarters of the Ohio Highway Patrol in Columbus. Nineteen warning points in the state will receive information simultaneously over a teletype network.

Cities included on the warning circuit are Akron, Athens, Chillicothe, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Findlay, Ironton, Jackson, Jefferson, Massillon, Piqua, Sandusky, Steubenville, Toledo and Wilmington.

School Teachers Seen Growing Militant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Increasing professionalism among school teachers is making them more militant, say Dr. Ronald G. Corwin of Ohio State University.

And, he added in a recently released survey, this increased militancy may well bring teachers more authority.

Because of their professionalism, more conflicts are likely to occur with administrations, Corwin said. He added, however, that 75 per cent of teachers in public schools are passive and enter into little conflict.

Minnesota To Get A-Powered Utility

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A $75-million, 500,000-kilowatt atomic power plant will be built in nearby Monticello by the Northern States Power Co.

The firm's president, Earl Ewald, said the plant — the second nuclear-powered one in the company's system — will be large enough to serve some 500,000 families.

Program Highlights Meet

Mrs. Howard Davies, 331 Meadow Lane, was hostess for the April meeting of the Circleville Garden Club. Mrs. James McDaniel, 235 Cedar Heights Road, was a guest.

The program was presented by Floyd Bartley and Donald McBeth. Mr. Bartley's topic was "Wildflowers in Pickaway County". He particularly cited the valuable and rare - like species to be found on Blisswood Acres, a prairie place along Darby Creek.

Mr. McBeth's talk on "Indian Relics" was illustrated with many items from his personal collection. These included ornamental, ceremonial and menial items originally possessed by archaic inhabitants which were made from bones, stones, and shells. Several were devices or tools in the gardening category.

How to be a valuable garden club member and what a garden club member anticipates most about spring were topics discussed. A thank you message was read from Mrs. Donald H. Watt for flowers and greetings received while she was in the hospital.

A letter was read from The Central Buckeye Council of American Red Cross expressing thanks for time and contributions to patients at Veterans Hospital, Chillicothe. Plans were made for the Spring Regional meeting April 13 of Ohio Association of Garden Clubs Inc. at Chillicothe.

Mrs. George Meyers assisted the hostess with refreshments.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Watch That Offer for Nitecap

DEAR ABBY: I have been a faithful reader of yours for many years and hope you can straighten me out on something. Our changing moral code has me stumped! I went out with a fellow I liked a lot, and after a movie he asked me up to his apartment for a nightcap. I considered the late hour and the fact that I didn't know him too well, (second date), so I refused politely. He seemed to understand but he never called me again. Now I'm wondering if I did the right thing in refusing his invitation.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED? I think you did right. If it was only a nightcap he wanted, he could have obtained one with you publicly. And judging from the way he faded, t'wasn't.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and have been married for 10 months. My husband is 20, and is in the navy. He has been overseas for nine months and three days. When I first learned I was pregnant I was thrilled and told everyone. The baby is now overdue, and my mother-in-law told me she is giving me just one more week to have the baby, and if it isn't here, she'll know it's not her son's, and she will have my marriage annulled. I am very hurt and upset about this, Abby, because the baby couldn't possibly be anyone else's but my husband's and that kind of talk is ruining my reputation. How can I prove to my mother-in-law that she is wrong about me? And if I can't prove it, what can I do?

HURT

DEAR HURT: As long as YOU know the baby couldn't possibly be anyone else's but your husband's, ignore the accusations and hold your head high. The gestation period is usually 280 days, but women have been known to miscalculate, thereby making the "due" date as much as 30 days off. (Both early and late.)

DEAR ABBY: When the children began to arrive my husband started to complain. He didn't like driving them to school, to the doctor, dentist or shopping. So finally I learned to drive so he could rest. Then he complained about having to do all the odd jobs around the house, so I learned to do them myself (I can change a washer with the best plumbers). Then he complained that his money was paying for the food in our mouths, the clothes on our backs and the gas in the car, so I went back to my old job, and the kids picked up odd jobs whenever they could. Guess what happened? He began complaining that he wasn't "needed" at home. Well, I agreed with him. Who needs a man who shoves off all his responsibility on his wife and kids? So, I divorced him. Do you know, Abby, we miss him. We miss hearing him complain. That's about all he ever did. Everything else we manage to do ourselves.

Flying Grandmother Arrives Home With Another World Plane Mark

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thirty one hours, 4,550 miles and several bumps on the head after taking off from Honolulu, weary but jubilant Jerrie Mock arrived home late Sunday night with a second world record under her wing.

The tiny 40-year-old aviatrix, who about two years ago became the first woman ever to fly solo around the world, touched down at Port Columbus Airport at 10:36 p.m. on the longest non-stop airplane flight ever made by a woman.

Mrs. Mock bettered the old mark of 3,671, set in 1938 by three Russia women, by nearly 900 miles.

But she couldn't have added another mile to the mark, landing nearly out of fuel and keeping a crowd of about 500 well-wishers anxiously in doubt until just before she arrived as to whether she would make it all the way home.

"I was short of fuel all right," said the diminutive housewife, "but it wasn't any emergency or anything."

"I knew I had enough to get here. Otherwise I would have landed somewhere else."

Still, it was disclosed later that the decision to fly on to Columbus wasn't made till after she was in Ohio and had transferred all the fuel to one tank so "I could measure to the drop" how much fuel was left.

She estimated she had between 15 and 30 minutes of fuel left after landing.

Mrs. Mock, the mother of two grown boys and a young daughter and grandmother of one, said the roughest part of her trip was "the winds over the Pacific and turbulence over the Rockies.

"I bumped my head a few times," she said of the flight over the Rockies, adding that was "the only part of the trip that worried me."

She said she also got "banged on the head by my flashlight and lost most of my personal effects" behind the special fuel tanks that took most of the passenger space in the six-seater Cesna Super Skylane.

"I even lost the computer which I use to figure distances," she said. "Luckily I had an extra one on my key chain."

Tired? someone asked.

"Just a little," she answered, closing her eyes. She remarked that was the first time she had closed her eyes since awakening at 5:30 a.m., Honolulu time, Saturday morning (10:30 a.m., EST), more than 36 hours earlier.

The 5-foot, 105-pound pilot took off from Honolulu, bolstered by three ham sandwiches on rye and a vacuum bottle of water, at 3:34 p.m., EST, Saturday.

Tailwinds early in the much-delayed flight enabled Mrs. Mock to reach speeds upwards of 207 miles an hour. But then came the fuel-consuming headwinds and at one point her husband, Russell, an advertising copy writer here, said she was "making between 20 and no knots."

She hit the West Coast just south of Los Angeles, then headed toward Flagstaff, Ariz., north to Pueblo, Colo., then east to Wichita, the point where she broke the previous record.

From there, it was over Kansas City; Vandalia, Ill.; south of Indianapolis and home.

Mrs. Mock, an Ohio State University graduate in aeronautical engineering, cut back on the throttle to conserve fuel during the latter stages of the trip.

The greeting party at the airport was headed by her husband and Gov. James A. Rhodes who together helped her down from the plane and held her up while her stiff legs became accustomed to being back on the ground.

Then it was hugs and kisses by her children and close friends and presentation of two-dozen carnations by her Phi Mu sorority sisters at Ohio State.

"Mrs. Mock is just the latest—and most modern— in a line of Ohio aviation heroes that started with the Wright Brothers," said Gov. Rhodes. "We're proud and honored to have her back."

Flying Grandmother Arrives Home With Another World Plane Mark

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thirty one hours, 4,550 miles and several bumps on the head after taking off from Honolulu, weary but jubilant Jerrie Mock arrived home late Sunday night with a second world record under her wing.

The tiny 40-year-old aviatrix, who about two years ago became the first woman ever to fly solo around the world, touched down at Port Columbus Airport at 10:36 p.m. on the longest non-stop airplane flight ever made by a woman.

Mrs. Mock bettered the old mark of 3,671, set in 1938 by three Russia women, by nearly 900 miles.

But she couldn't have added another mile to the mark, landing nearly out of fuel and keeping a crowd of about 500 well-wishers anxiously in doubt until just before she arrived as to whether she would make it all the way home.

"I was short of fuel all right," said the diminutive housewife, "but it wasn't any emergency or anything."

"I knew I had enough to get here. Otherwise I would have landed somewhere else."

Still, it was disclosed later that the decision to fly on to Columbus wasn't made till after she was in Ohio and had transferred all the fuel to one tank so "I could measure to the drop" how much fuel was left.

She estimated she had between 15 and 30 minutes of fuel left after landing.

Mrs. Mock, the mother of two grown boys and a young daughter and grandmother of one, said the roughest part of her trip was "the winds over the Pacific and turbulence over the Rockies.

"I bumped my head a few times," she said of the flight over the Rockies, adding that was "the only part of the trip that worried me."

She said she also got "banged on the head by my flashlight and lost most of my personal effects" behind the special fuel tanks that took most of the passenger space in the six-seater Cesna Super Skylane.

"I even lost the computer which I use to figure distances," she said. "Luckily I had an extra one on my key chain."

Tired? someone asked.

"Just a little," she answered, closing her eyes. She remarked that was the first time she had closed her eyes since awakening at 5:30 a.m., Honolulu time, Saturday morning (10:30 a.m., EST), more than 36 hours earlier.

The 5-foot, 105-pound pilot took off from Honolulu, bolstered by three ham sandwiches on rye and a vacuum bottle of water, at 3:34 p.m., EST, Saturday.

Tailwinds early in the much-delayed flight enabled Mrs. Mock to reach speeds upwards of 207 miles an hour. But then came the fuel-consuming headwinds and at one point her husband, Russell, an advertising copy writer here, said she was "making between 20 and no knots."

She hit the West Coast just south of Los Angeles, then headed toward Flagstaff, Ariz., north to Pueblo, Colo., then east to Wichita, the point where she broke the previous record.

From there, it was over Kansas City; Vandalia, Ill.; south of Indianapolis and home.

Mrs. Mock, an Ohio State University graduate in aeronautical engineering, cut back on the throttle to conserve fuel during the latter stages of the trip.

The greeting party at the airport was headed by her husband and Gov. James A. Rhodes who together helped her down from the plane and held her up while her stiff legs became accustomed to being back on the ground.

Then it was hugs and kisses by her children and close friends and presentation of two-dozen carnations by her Phi Mu sorority sisters at Ohio State.

"Mrs. Mock is just the latest—and most modern— in a line of Ohio aviation heroes that started with the Wright Brothers," said Gov. Rhodes. "We're proud and honored to have her back."

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration isn't saying much — if it knows much — about the secretive monk, Thich Tri Quang, the man behind the Buddhists' efforts to throw out the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky in South Viet Nam.

But at this moment Tri Quang is the most important man and force in that country and, despite all the American efforts to the contrary, in the end could be responsible for turning it over to the Communists.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball on television Sunday dismissed the turmoil and rioting in South Viet Nam as simply the "evidence of a political process at work." All factions, he said, are determined to resist Communist aggression from North Viet Nam.

But Sunday the Buddhist leaders indicated Ball was seeing the situation a little too simply. At a news conference Buddhist officials said they have lost confidence in Ky's government and have vowed to form a caretaker government to organize general elections.

Asking if they envisioned an elected civilian government seeking peace with the Viet Cong and asking the United States to pull out of Viet Nam, a Buddhist spokesman replied: "If that is what the people want, then that is what they will get. We want to fulfill the aspirations of the people."

First, a little background. To Chi Minh, Communist leader of Norh Viet Nam, is the best known figure in that country, north and south. To many he is a hero, to all a legend while still living. He has been a fighting leader 20 years.

If open elections were tomorrow in both Viet Nams, Ho Chi Minh would seem to have the best chance of winning, particularly when it is remembered many Vietnamese have little or no knowledge of communism or democracy and the Viet Cong stil control about 75 per cent of the countryside in South Viet Nam.

No South Vietnamese leader has been allowed to last long enough to build up real power of a real folowin gor come close to being a rival to Ho Chi Minh as a leader in the public mind.

The monk, Tri Quang, has been a major factor in toppling every Vietnamese government since November 1963, when President Ngo Dinh Diem was not only ousted but shot to death. Now Tri Quang is working on Premier Ky.

What is Quang's background and possible connection with the Communists of North Viet Nam? The Washington Star's correspondent in Saigon, Richard Critchfield, Sunday wrote one of the most thoughtful and intelligent stories to come out of Viet Nam since the present troubles started.

He pointed out that Tri Quang's chief religious and political teacher was Thich Tri Do, today the Buddhist superior in North Viet Nam and a member of its Cabinet. And, Critchfield said, Tri Quang, has a younger brother who is a Buddhist monk in North Viet Nam and who paid a secret visit to him in 1964, accompanied by a member of the Viet Cong's political arm.

Quang denies that his brother is a North Vietnamese monk.

And, Critchfield said, Tri Quang twice told a Veintamese newsman in 1965 that he wants to stop the war as soon as possible by a cease-fire or by any negotiation that will have the people' support.

That sounds exactly like the answer given Sunday by Buddhist leaders to newsmen, mentioned earlier in this story.

Right now, Critchfield said, Tri Quang is sponsoring free elections "which in South Viet Nam would deliver the country over to the Communists as long as Viet Cong terror and political organizations control the countryside."

This raises, therefore, a very obvious but critical question: Is it possible that Quang is interested mainly only in the survival and influence of Buddhists and is therefore willing for the Communists to take over all of Viet Nam if the Buddhists are guaranteed their place in the sun?

Artificial Kidney Seen Aid in Cancer Warfare

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —The artificial kidney may provide a new and unexpected aide in the chemical warfare on cancer.

Dr. Pierre M. Galletti of Palermo, Italy, said experiments with dogs suggest the possibility of linking the robot kidney to a patient being given powerful, but potentially dangerous anti-cancer drugs — and using the robot to cleanse the patient's blood of drug remnants remaining after the chemical attack on the cancer site.

The idea, he told a scientific meeting, is to intercept the blood flowing back towards the heart from the cancer site, cleanse it in the machine, and shunt it back towards the heart.

The drug used in the initial attack on the cancer site would have been injected into an artery taking blood away from the heart, so that phase would not present a safety problem, he indicated.

Galletti, a visiting researcher at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., described the animal experiments to the annual meeting of the American Society for Artificial Internal Organs.

Other reports to the meeting included:

1. A zip-on, zip-off plastic covering for part of the heart was described by Dr. Robert Jajtchuk of the University of Chicago Medical School.

Employed so far only in dogs, but described as offering promise for human use, it is designed as an emergency aid to help restore the heart's normal pulsing action after a heart attack or a "cardiac arrest" — heart stoppage — during a surgical operation, Zajtchuk said.

The plastic cover, secured to the heart by a zipper, is linked to a compresed-air pump, he said. The air, circulating inside the cover, exerts a pressure that promotes return of the heart's own pumping action.

2. More research on the hearts of sharks — as potential aides in developing more simplified heart-lung machines for human use — was urged by Dr. Armand Crescenzi of Pleasantville, N.Y.

Declaring the shark's heart has only two chambers compared with four for the hearts of man and most animals, Crescenzi said he and Dr. C. Lloyd Claff of Randolph, Mass., already have developed an experimental model of a home-style heart-lung-kidney machine based on the principle of a shark's heart. But he said it needs further improvmeent before it could be considered for human trials.

Braeburn Farm Will Not Race At Beulah Park This Season

For the first time in many years Braeburn Farm will have no horses racing at Beulah Park and other running tracks throughout the state.

But Mrs. Miriam Adkins reports Braeburn Farm is "not out of the horse business."

An 18-year-old thoroughbred mare that has been on the farm for years, yet never had a colt, foaled last month.

The mare was injured as a 4-year-old, just as she was about to begin a promising racing career, and never made it to the tracks.

* * *

HOWEVER, the Adkins kept the mare, and made many unsuccessful attempts to raise a colt from her.

In September of 1964, she was sent to another farm where a breeding attempt was made. However, last fall the horse was returned and as the truck driver unloaded her, he made the comment, "We've had her long enough. We've just given up."

The mare was turned out to run with the other unbred horses at the farm this winter. And much to the surprise of everybody, she dropped a foal in early March of this year.

Mrs. Adkins reports the colt, as yet unamed, is a strong healthy animal although the aged mare did not have the care usually given a broodmare during pregnancy.

$100,000 Pace Due On Thursday

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Harness racing's first $100,000 race of the year will be renewed at Yonkers Raceway Thursday night when the best pacers that could be assembled from New-Zealand and the United States clash in the 1½ miles of the International Pace.

The International is the first leg of the $200,000 series sponsored by Yonkers. The $100,000 race will be followed by the $50,000 Good Time Pace on April 21 and the $50,000 National Championship Pace on April 28.

Two of the three American-bred representaives — Murdock Hanover and Adios Marches—are comparatively newcomers to the Yonkers racing colony. The third is Adora's Dream, a 7-year-old owned by Herschel Quillen of Dagsboro, Del.

Murdock Hanover, winner of four races in seven starts this year for the Busy Bee Stable of New York, jumped into prominence with recent victories in the American Preview Pace, with a mile time of 2:02 2-5, and the H Dale, in which he stepped 1¼ miles in 2:33 3-5. Adora's Dream runner-up in the Hal Dale, has a best time of 2:02 2-5 for one mile this season and has won three of his six races.

Adios Marches, a 4-year-old owned jointly by Abraham Wilsker of Eastchester, N.Y., and the Ohio Valley Stable of Hamilton, Ohio, cut out most of the pace in the Hal Dale and then finished fourth, beaten 1½ lengths for all the money.

Jacobs, Brewer To Joust Nicklaus for Masters Title

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer, a couple of outsiders, were overshadowed by the menacing dominant figure of Jack Nicklaus going into today's three-way, 18-hole playoff for the green coat that goes to the Masters champion.

"I've blown three chances,' the defending champion growled after finishing the regulation 72 holes in a tie with Jacobs and Brewer at 288, even par for the demanding Augusta National Course.

"I don't intend to blow another."

Jacobs and Brewer had already finished and were sitting nervously on the sidelines Sunday when Nicklaus missed by about two inches on a 25-foot birdie putt on the 18th that would have won it for the Golden Bear.

When it just missed, Jacobs and Brewer suddenly — and just for today — were elevated to The Big Three. The exclusive club more normally composed of Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player has shared the title in this classic seven of the last eight years.

Palmer made his bid and failed, finishing two strokes back. Player never was in it.

The playoff was scheduled for 1:45 p.m., (EST) with national television (CBS) of the concluding holes starting three hours later. In the event of a further tie, sudden death will be in effect, starting at the first hole.

It's the fifth playoff in Masters history and the second involving three players.

The winner will get a check for $20,000. The runnerup will receive $12,300 and third place will be worth $8,300. The total purse was $152,880, an increase of $15,205 over last year.

Nicklaus, gunning for a third Masters title and a record second straight, has had rounds of 68-76-72-72; Brewer has turned in scores of 74-72-72-70 and Jacobs has scored 75-71-70-72.

Hawks, 76ers Still Alive In NBA Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Hawks have scraped themselves off the floor in the National Basketball Association playoffs. The Philadelphia 76ers are still trying to figure out what hit them.

St. Louis fought off elimination in the Western Division playoffs Sunday night by outlasting Los Angeles 112-100 on the Lakers' court.

The Boston Celtics pushed Philadelphia to the brink in the Eastern Division finals Sunday afternoon by erasing an eight-point deficit in the fourth quarter and stunning the 76ers in overtime 114-108.

Tuesday night St. Louis, trailing Los Angeles 3-2 in their best-of-seven series, entertains the tired Lakers while Philadelphia, down 3-1, tries to rebound at home against the Celtics.

"I can't believe it, man. I can't believe it," Wilt Chamberlain muttered after the Celtics rallied behind Sam Jones and John Havlicek to overtake the 76ers before a screaming crowd of 13,909 at the Boston Garden. "It will be a long, hard road for us now."

The 76ers must win three in a row to make the final round. Two straight will do the job for the Hawks, who bounced back on the scoring of Len Wilkens and Cliff Hagan.

Koufax, Drysdale Pitch No-Hitters In Preparation for Baseball Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale aren't acting any more.

That became apparent during the weekend when baseball's first $100,000-plus pitching pair, holdouts until 12 days ago, put in strong bids for opening-week starting assignments with the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

Koufax pitched six innings of no-hit ball, striking out nine and retiring the last 16 men in order, as the Dodgers defeated Cleveland 3-0 Saturday. Then Sunday, Drysdale pitched six innings of shutout ball, allowing just six singles and triking out four in a 6-0 victory over the Indians.

The performances in the closing exhibition games left the aces of the Dodger staff, who combined for 49 victories last year, anxious to make their first starts sometime this week.

"I'll be ready to pitch Wednesday and I'll go as far as I can," said Koufax. But he cautioned that "we'll just have to wait and see how far that can be."

"I feel the same way," said Drysdale. "I'll be ready Friday and I'll pitch as many innings as I can."

In light of their lengthy hold-out siege, the ability of Koufax and Drysdale to pitch as effectively as they did Saturday and Sunday has to be considered a plus factor for the Dodgers, who earlier estimated longer delays before the pair would be ready.

Koufax, as a matter of fact, will be getting a jump on last year's pitching schedule if he opens Wednesday -- the Dodgers' second game — since his arthritic elbow kept him on the sidelines until the fourth game last season.

Claude Osteen draws the opening day assignment for the world champions. He is scheduled to go against veteran Robin Roberts of Houston as the regular season gets into full swing with an eight-game program following Monday's traditional openers at Washington and Cincinnati.

With President Johnson remaining in Texas for an Easter holiday, Vice President Humphrey will be his reliever, throwing out the first pitch of the season as the Senators meet Cleveland.

Then Pete Richert will take the mound for Washington while Sam McDowell, the American League's answer to Koufax, starts for the Indians. At Cincinnati, the 82nd National League opener will match the New York Mets and Jack Fisher against the Reds and Milt Pappas.

Tuesday's schedule shows five day games and three nighters. The American League has most of the day action with Kansas City at Minnesota, Detroit at New York, Baltimore at Boston and California at Chicago.

Chicago also will be at San Francisco for a day game with the remainder of the National League schedule at night. Pittsburgh will play the first major league game at Atlanta, Philadelphia will be at St. Louis and Houston at Los Angeles.

Besides Atlanta, one other franchise shift has been made—the Angels moving south from Los Angeles to Anaheim — but six clubs will show off new managers.

The Cincinnati - New York meeting focuses on two of the rookie managers, with Don Heffner making his debut as the Reds' field boss and Wes Westrum beginning his first full year as Casey Stengel's successor with the Mets.

Other new managers are Leo Durocher with the Cubs, Eddie Stanky with the White Sox, Al Dark with the Athletics and Grady Hatton with the Astros.

In all, 20 teams are confident they have a shot at the two pennants, but the Las Vegas oddsmakers are sticking with the Dodgers in the National League while champion Minnesota and Baltimore have been established as cofavorites in the American League.

The Orioles have received strong backing since acquiring one of the National League's brightest stars, Frank Robinson. Robinson, the slugging outfielder who compiled a .303 lifetime batting average in 10 seasons with the Reds, already is being called the AL's top player.

The entire American League, meanwhile, came out ahead of the National in games played between the two leagues during the exhibition season. The AL won 80 games and lost 74.

The Reds had a particularly tough time against the Chicago White Sox, finally getting their first victory in eight meetings Sunday, 9-3, with home run help from Tommy Harper, Don Pavletich and Tommy Helms. The White Sox finished with the best exhibition record, 21-7.

In other closing pre-season games, St. Louis edged Kansas City 7-6 in 10 innings, California downed San Francisco 6-5, Boston belted Washington 6-1, the New York Yankees nipped Atlanta 2-1, the New York Mets thumped Baltimore 6-3, Philadelphia crushed Pittsburgh 11-5, and Minnesota whipped Houston 8-1.

Detroit and the Chicago Cubs took on Pacific Coast League opponents, the Tigers losing to Oklahoma City 9-4 and the Cubs beating Tacoma 3-1.

Verdict Due Tuesday in Braves Fuss

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The verdict in Wisconsin's antitrust battle with baseball now is expected to come only hours before the former Milwaukee Braves are scheduled to open in Atlanta Tuesday.

White-haired Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller, who worked from morning until past midnight Easter Sunday preparing his decision, said he did not expect to be ready to announce the ruling until Tuesday morning.

The State of Wisconsin is asking that the Braves be ordered to return immediately to Milwaukee unless and until expansion is assured. Should it win its suit, the verdict could leave the National League wrapped in a legal web of epic complications at the very outset of the season.

The 38-day antitrust trial, with more than a million words written into the record, ended last Wednesday with a dramatic offer by the state to drop its demand for the Braves return if the National League would promise Milwaukee an expansion team not this year but next.

Rumors of a settlement since have come and gone. Nothing of substance has surfaced.

Baseball Commissioner William Eckert said last week the Wisconsin offer would be studied. He said nothing over the weekend. In both Milwaukee and New York, there were uniform denials that any contacts toward a compromise had been made.

Atlanta Shoots For NL Pennant

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Major league baseball officially comes to the Deep South Tuesday night and Atlanta Braves' Manager Bobby Bragen has adopted a "why not a pennant, too?" type of attitude on the eve of the opening game.

Braves officials report that about 45,000 tickets have been sold in advance for the opening game with Pittsburgh. The $18 7llion stadium seats 55,000.

With a smile of optimism, Bragan said he sees the National League pennant chase as a six-team race, "and we're one of the teams."

His opening opponent, Pittsburgh, also is one of the teams, he said. The others are Los Angele, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and San Francisco.

Dobbs Dickering For Army Post

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Texas Western football Coach Bobby Dobbs says he will remain tight-lipped about the West Point football coaching vacancy until sometime today.

Dobbs and Col. Ray Murphy, Army's athletic director, met Saturday night and Sunday in El Paso to discuss the West Point coaching post, opened last week with the sudden resignation of Paul Dietzel.

Koufax, Drysdale Pitch No-Hitters In Preparation for Baseball Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale aren't acting any more.

That became apparent during the weekend when baseball's first $100,000-plus pitching pair, holdouts until 12 days ago, put in strong bids for opening-week starting assignments with the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

Koufax pitched six innings of no-hit ball, striking out nine and retiring the last 16 men in order, as the Dodgers defeated Cleveland 3-0 Saturday. Then Sunday, Drysdale pitched six innings of shutout ball, allowing just six singles and triking out four in a 6-0 victory over the Indians.

The performances in the closing exhibition games left the aces of the Dodger staff, who combined for 49 victories last year, anxious to make their first starts sometime this week.

"I'll be ready to pitch Wednesday and I'll go as far as I can," said Koufax. But he cautioned that "we'll just have to wait and see how far that can be."

"I feel the same way," said Drysdale. "I'll be ready Friday and I'll pitch as many innings as I can."

In light of their lengthy holdout siege, the ability of Koufax and Drysdale to pitch as effectively as they did Saturday and Sunday has to be considered a plus factor for the Dodgers, who earlier estimated longer delays before the pair would be ready.

Koufax, as a matter of fact, will be getting a jump on last year's pitching schedule if he opens Wednesday -- the Dodgers' second game — since his arthritic elbow kept him on the sidelines until the fourth game last season.

Claude Osteen draws the opening day assignment for the world champions. He is scheduled to go against veteran Robin Roberts of Houston as the regular season gets into full swing with an eight-game program following Monday's traditional openers at Washington and Cincinnati.

With President Johnson remaining in Texas for an Easter holiday, Vice President Humphrey will be his reliever, throwing out the first pitch of the season as the Senators meet Cleveland.

Then Pete Richert will take the mound for Washington while Sam McDowell, the American League's answer to Koufax, starts for the Indians. At Cincinnati, the 82nd National League opener will match the New York Mets and Jack Fisher against the Reds and Milt Pappas.

Tuesday's schedule shows five day games and three nighters. The American League has most of the day action with Kansas City at Minnesota, Detroit at New York, Baltimore at Boston and California at Chicago.

Chicago also will be at San Francisco for a day game with the remainder of the National League schedule at night. Pittsburgh will play the first major league game at Atlanta, Philadelphia will be at St. Louis and Houston at Los Angeles.

Besides Atlanta, one other franchise shift has been made—the Angels moving south from Los Angeles to Anaheim — but six clubs will show off new managers.

The Cincinnati - New York meeting focuses on two of the rookie managers, with Don Heffner making his debut as the Reds' field boss and Wes Westrum beginning his first full year as Casey Stengel's successor with the Mets.

Other new managers are Leo Durocher with the Cubs, Eddie Stanky with the White Sox, Al Dark with the Athletics and Grady Hatton with the Astros.

In all, 20 teams are confident they have a shot at the two pennants, but the Las Vegas oddsmakers are sticking with the Dodgers in the National League while champion Minnesota and Baltimore have been established as cofavorites in the American League.

The Orioles have received strong backing since acquiring one of the National League's brightest stars, Frank Robinson. Robinson, the slugging outfielder who compiled a .303 lifetime batting average in 10 seasons with the Reds, already is being called the AL's top player.

The entire American League, meanwhile, came out ahead of the National in games played between the two leagues during the exhibition season. The AL won 80 games and lost 74.

The Reds had a particularly tough time against the Chicago White Sox, finally getting their first victory in eight meetings Sunday, 9-3, with home run help from Tommy Harper, Don Pavletich and Tommy Helms. The White Sox finished with the best exhibition record, 21-7.

In other closing pre-season games, St. Louis edged Kansas City 7-6 in 10 innings, California downed San Francisco 6-5, Boston belted Washington 6-1, the New York Yankees nipped Atlanta 2-1, the New York Mets thumped Baltimore 6-3, Philadelphia crushed Pittsburgh 11-5, and Minnesota whipped Houston 8-1.

Detroit and the Chicago Cubs took on Pacific Coast League opponents, the Tigers losing to Oklahoma City 9-4 and the Cubs beating Tacoma 3-1.

Verdict Due Tuesday in Braves Fuss

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The verdict in Wisconsin's antitrust battle with baseball now is expected to come only hours before the former Milwaukee Braves are scheduled to open in Atlanta Tuesday.

White-haired Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller, who worked from morning until past midnight Easter Sunday preparing his decision, said he did not expect to be ready to announce the ruling until Tuesday morning.

The State of Wisconsin is asking that the Braves be ordered to return immediately to Milwaukee unless and until expansion is assured. Should it win its suit, the verdict could leave the National League wrapped in a legal web of epic complications at the very outset of the season.

The 38-day antitrust trial, with more than a million words written into the record, ended last Wednesday with a dramatic offer by the state to drop its demand for the Braves return if the National League would promise Milwaukee an expansion team not this year but next.

Rumors of a settlement since have come and gone. Nothing of substance has surfaced.

Baseball Commissioner William Eckert said last week the Wisconsin offer would be studied. He said nothing over the weekend. In both Milwaukee and New York, there were uniform denials that any contacts toward a compromise had been made.

Atlanta Shoots For NL Pennant

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Major league baseball officially comes to the Deep South Tuesday night and Atlanta Braves' Manager Bobby Bragen has adopted a "why not a pennant, too?" type of attitude on the eve of the opening game.

Braves officials report that about 45,000 tickets have been sold in advance for the opening game with Pittsburgh. The $18 7llion stadium seats 55,000.

With a smile of optimism, Bragan said he sees the National League pennant chase as a six-team race, "and we're one of the teams."

His opening opponent, Pittsburgh, also is one of the teams, he said. The others are Los Angele, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and San Francisco.

Dobbs Dickering For Army Post

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Texas Western football Coach Bobby Dobbs says he will remain tight-lipped about the West Point football coaching vacancy until sometime today.

Dobbs and Col. Ray Murphy, Army's athletic director, met Saturday night and Sunday in El Paso to discuss the West Point coaching post, opened last week with the sudden resignation of Paul Dietzel.

Hassle May Develop Over TV in Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Television is on the verge of a breakthrough in Ohio's General Asembly.

Current leaders expect to have Senate and House chambers wired and lighted for the first live TV broadcasts of working sessions before the 107th Legilature convenes Jan. 2.

But it will be up to new members, elected next November, to say whether Ohio actually will join the select circle of a half dozen states opening their legislatures to virtually unlimited broadcasting.

That decision could generate the first big fight of next year's legislature, an unknown quantity because of reapportionment changes. But present leaders doubt it.

They figure that if the facilities are ready, permission will be granted for Ohioans to view their lawmakers in action through a camera's eye.

"I'd like to open it wide," says acting House Speaker Robert F. Reckman of Cincinnati, chairman of a Senate-House committee recommending live broadcasts.

Reckman plans to have bids from contractors on hand before he calls on the policy-making Rules Committee to approve installation of modern lights and TV cables. Preliminary estimates run around $100,000 for the two chambers.

Senate party leaders, Republican Theodore M. Ray of Piqua and Democrat Frank W. ing, of Toledo, have the final say on installations in the upper house.

"I'm heartily in favor of it." says King, Ohio AFL-CIO president. "There should be full coverage for the public," he asserts.

Without dissenting, Gray says he wants figures on the actual cost before making a decision.

He points out that senators would need desk microphones like those now in use by the House so broadcasters could hook into a loudspeaker system linked to their trucks parked outside the Capitol.

Senate and House leaders agree that funds are available for facilities without asking permission of a tight-fisted Controlling Board to spend the money.

Officials in the House already are considering making a stenographers work room available for a headquarters. It would be similar to the press room now used by the Ohio Legislative Correspondents Association whose members are accredited by daily newpapers and wire services.

Members of both associations now have access to the floor and each house during working sessions but cameras have been banned, except for special occasions such as the governor's ceremonial "State of the State" address to the legislature.

An electric company engineer told Reckman's committee that new metallic vapor lights could be hung from chandeliers to provide ilumination equivalent to that of business offices without detracting from decorative ceilings or overtaxing air conditioning systems. He stressed that present lighting is inadequate.

Platforms would be erected at the front and rear of chambers for TV cameras.

Candidates for the legislature, incumbents in particular, viewed the prospect of being "on camera" with mixed emotions.

Some expressed concern lest camera consciousness interfere with the work of sessions or lead to "staging" attributed to national political convention broadcasting. Others frankly said they were not actors.

But the concensus was that if broadcasting facilities were installed, their use probably would be approved.

One said jokingly that blue might become the vogue for well dressed legislators because that color is flattering on television.

13 States Set For Polls on Primary Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Party primaries in 13 states will offer some tests at the polls next month of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

They will provide hints also on the extent of the political upheaval that has raised Republican hopes in the South. They seem likely to demonstrate more party division among Democrats than among Republicans.

Oregon's May 24 primary is shaping up as a test of Pacific Northwest sentiment on Johnson's conduct of the Southeast Asian war.

GOP Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, who is critical of the President's policies, seems certain to become his party" nominee for the Senate seat being vacated by Democratic Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger.

In the Democratic primary, Rep. Robert B. Duncan has jumped into the senatorial nomination race with an announcement of all-out support for Johnson's course.

Howard Morgan, a member of the Federal Power Commission in the Kennedy administration, is in the contest with the claimed support of Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., outspoken dissenter to the Johnson war policies.

Primary voting takes place May 3 in Alabama, Florida, Indiana, Ohio, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

In Alabama, which has seen some switching by local officials from the Democratic to Republican parties, Mrs. George C. Walace is trying for the Democratic nomination for governor for which her husband is barred from running again.

Republicans think that the Democrats may come out of this contest so disorganized that GOP Rep. James D. Martin could win the governorship in the fall elections. They are hoping any such result might increase their 5-3 margin over Democrats in House seats.

Democratic Sen. John J. Sparkman has no primary election opposition but may face a tough Republican challenge in November.

Gov. John B. Connally, a supporter of the President's Viet Nam course who is at odds with his old friend Johnson on some certain of winning renomination in the May Texas primary.

In Nebraska, on May 10, Gov. Frank B. Morrison is likely to become the Democratic nominee to oppose GOP Sen. Carl T. Curtis in what would be billed as a liberal vs. conservative general election contest. Curtis, a conservative, has supported Johnson's war policies. Morrison has voiced no dient.

West Virginia's May 10 primary will be followed by these in Pennsylvania May 17, Kentucky May 24 and North Carolina May 28.

The Pennsylvania voting will coincide with the filing deadline in New York State, where the Democrats are far from achieving any unity on a candidate to oppose GOP Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Numerous YMCA Functions Available without Building

An exploratory committee pursuing the establishment of a YMCA program here has expressed definite favor for development of a countywide family type function.

One of the initial efforts would be to secure a building facility until such time as a permanent structure could be obtained. However, according to Columbus YMCA officials, there are numerous programs that can be organized in a community without a building. These activities include:

French Film Star Lauded For Role in Horse Opera

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What happens when the new wave meets the old West?

Alain Delon, star of French films, may not have conquered the frontier, but he won the admiration of his coworkers on "Texas Across the River." He put on some of the most impressive athletic feats in film since Douglas Fairbanks hung up his buckskin.

During the Universal Western the handsome Frenchman:

Leaped onto a rock and then to his horse; jumped out of a covered wagon onto a horse; rode a long-horn bull out of a river and into the bank; performed a slashing sword fight, with a blade passing an inch from his face; faced a charging mass of Texas longhorns; managed a number of running mounts, falls and leaps.

"Some of the set workers wanted to know if we had horses in France," the actor reported.

Delon, who did his basic training in Paris's Bois de Boulogne as well as New Tork's Central Park, admitted that he never expected his horsemanship to pay off in a Hollywood horse opera.

"I had been a fan of westerns since I was a boy in France. Gary Cooper was my favorite," he said.

"In those days, I had not thought of being an actor. Even after I became an actor, I never thought I would be cast in a Western because I am French."

A little thing like that didn't stop Hollywood. Addition of an international star of Delon's caliber would assist the chances of "Texas Across the River" in the Europe market. Also in the cast: Dean Martin, Rosemary Forstythe, Joey Bishop, Tina Marquand.

Delon still meets resistance from Hollywood film makers because of his accent. That puzzles him.

Hocking Farmer Is Honored for High Corn Yield

Wilson Ross & Sons of Route 1, Laurelville, were among the farmers taking part in the 1965 DeKalb 200 Bushel Corn Club program.

The Rosses recorded a yield of 170.15 bushels per acre with DeKalb XL45. Their accomplishment was honored recently at a meeting in Dayton.

The aim of the 200 Bushel Club is to grow and mechanically harvest 200 bushels of No. 2 grain from one acre. Knowledge gained in shooting for this practical yield goal can then be applied to the entire corn acreage.

More than 450 farmers took part in the program in 1965 and nine of these farmers topped the 200 bushel level.

18 Young Irish Planning Hunger Strike on Holiday

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Eighteen young Irish militants planned to start a hunger strike today as their nation celebrated the 50th anniversary of the Easter uprising.

The youths said they would fast from noon today until 3:45 p.m. Saturday, recalling the duration of the bloody 1916 rebellion crushed by the British. The uprising eventually led to the creation of the Irish Republic.

Ireland has no cause to celebrate, the hunger strikers said. They accused the Irish government of betraying revolutionary ideals by letting Gaelic die out and by tolerating Ireland's partition and economic dependence on Britain.

The hunger strikers included several Dublin University students and six supporters from Belfast in the north. They are members of a fringe organization of the Gaelic revival movement called Misneach — Courage.

Inside Dublin's main post office, Joe Clarke, 84, revisited the place where he participated in the uprising and laid a wreath at the foot of the Cuchulainn statue, which is dedicated to a legendary figure symbolizing Ireland. The wreath carried the words, "To the forgotten ideals of 1916."

Mairtin O'Cadhain, a leading Gaelic author, Sunday night accused the government of selling out the aims of 1916 and fearing the spread of the Irish language because it would stir up Irish nationalism.

Despite these protests, there were no outbreaks of nationalist violence. Irishmen celebrated the anniversary by singing patriotic songs or paused to remember the bitter uprising. The Archbishop of Dublin was to dedicate a garden of remembrance today in Parnell Square, where the British had held most of the prisoners from the post office garrison.

President Eamon de Valera and other 1916 veterans reviewed a military parade by 5,000 Sunday as the Republican flag fluttered atop the post office where once it had been hoisted defiantly.

De Valera, 83 and nearly blind, and Prime Minister Sean Lemass, 61, were closely protected during the ceremonies because of reported threats to their lives by extremists. There were no incidents.

13 States Set For Polls on Primary Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Party primaries in 13 states will offer some tests at the polls next month of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

They will provide hints also on the extent of the political upheaval that has raised Republican hopes in the South. They seem likely to demonstrate more party division among Democrats than among Republicans.

Oregon's May 24 primary is shaping up as a test of Pacific Northwest sentiment on Johnson's conduct of the Southeast Asian war.

GOP Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, who is critical of the President's policies, seems certain to become his party" nominee for the Senate seat being vacated by Democratic Sen. Maurine B. Neuberger.

In the Democratic primary, Rep. Robert B. Duncan has jumped into the senatorial nomination race with an announcement of all-out support for Johnson's course.

Howard Morgan, a member of the Federal Power Commission in the Kennedy administration, is in the contest with the claimed support of Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., outspoken dissenter to the Johnson war policies.

Primary voting takes place May 3 in Alabama, Florida, Indiana, Ohio, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

In Alabama, which has seen some switching by local officials from the Democratic to Republican parties, Mrs. George C. Walace is trying for the Democratic nomination for governor for which her husband is barred from running again.

Republicans think that the Democrats may come out of this contest so disorganized that GOP Rep. James D. Martin could win the governorship in the fall elections. They are hoping any such result might increase their 5-3 margin over Democrats in House seats.

Democratic Sen. John J. Sparkman has no primary election opposition but may face a tough Republican challenge in November.

Gov. John B. Connally, a supporter of the President's Viet Nam course who is at odds with his old friend Johnson on some certain of winning renomination in the May Texas primary.

In Nebraska, on May 10, Gov. Frank B. Morrison is likely to become the Democratic nominee to oppose GOP Sen. Carl T. Curtis in what would be billed as a liberal vs. conservative general election contest. Curtis, a conservative, has supported Johnson's war policies. Morrison has voiced no dient.

West Virginia's May 10 primary will be followed by these in Pennsylvania May 17, Kentucky May 24 and North Carolina May 28.

The Pennsylvania voting will coincide with the filing deadline in New York State, where the Democrats are far from achieving any unity on a candidate to oppose GOP Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.
